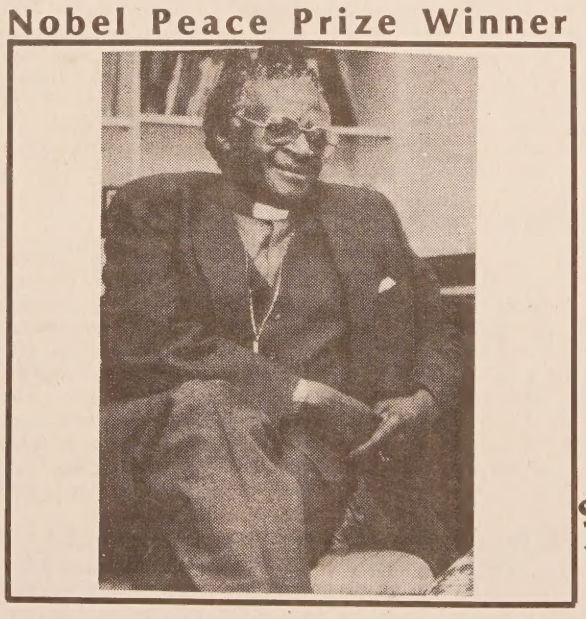
Nobel Peace Prize Winner



Tutu

Diminutive in stature, but not in other ways, sharp-eyed and outspoken, the 53-year-old cleric, that is to say, is a man with a message that is yearned for.

To the authorities, however, such talk falls little short of subversion, a challenge perceived as part of a "total onslaught" from within and without on "white South Africa and a voice that is to be stifled" His organization, the South African Council of Churches, of which he is General Secretary, has been scrutinized by three official judical inquiries. His pass-port has been repeatedly withdrawn.

Bishop Tutu is the second South African campaigner against apartheid to receive the prize in its 83-year history.

The 1960 award was given to Albert John Luthuli, former president of the African National congress. The Nobel committee said that "this year's award should be seen as a renewed recognition of the courage and heroism shown by black South Africans" committed to nonviolent struggle and to others around the world who use such tactics to fight racial discrimination.

As with last year's award to lech Walesa, the Polish labor union leader, the choice of Bishop Tutu is expected to be seen by the Government in the recipient's country as an unwelcome political gesture intended to increase international pressures for change.

Mr. Walesa chose not to accept his award in person for fear that Poland would refuse to let him return home afterward.

"He is a man of tremendous courage who has inspired people to go on working when co-workers have disappeared or been imprisoned," said the Rev. Gunnar Lislerud, the Bishop of Borg in southeast Norway and a friend for over 30 years. "It will now be difficult for the Government to do anything to him or the council."

DEBATE '84

Spellman Gardner

1984 Gubernatorial Debate

Gov John Spellman the Republican is serving his first four year term as governor His record of Public Service includes terms of office as King County executive and King County Councilman.

Booth Gardner, the democratic nominee for governor, is serving his first term as Pierce County Executive He earlier served in Washington State Senate

John Spellman and Booth Gardner found a lot to disagree about in their televised debate

It was quite a show for two men mild-mannered personalities. Gardner confined his proposal for Puget Sound clean-up to saying he would "do something" about it He also said he didn't know enough to comment on Spellman's most controversial pro-environment actions - his rejection of the northern tier oil pipeline and an oil rid assembly plant near Bellingham.

Governor Spellman said he could create 250,000 jobs in the next four years, but he didn't say how.

After the debate Gardner complained that the panelists had asked "personal-type stuff" and didn't get into any substantive stuff

But Spellman said the questions were fair and as substantive as could be expected in a one hour format.

I think this was a fine panel. I think they asked tough questions

ISAIAH 53: 1&2

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him as a root out of dry ground.

He hath no form nor comiliness: and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

WORDS OF WISDOM

PSALM 109
David Complains of His
Slanderous Enemies

Hold not thy peace, O God of my praise;
For the mouth of the wicked and the mouth of the deceitful are opened against me: they have spoken against me with a lying tongue.

They compassed me about also with words of hatred; and fought against me without a cause.

For my love they are my adversaries: but I give myself unto prayer.

And they have rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my love.

Set thou a wicked man over him: and let Satan stand at his right hand.

When he shall be judged, let him be condemned: and let his prayer become sin.

Let his days be few; and let another take his office.

Let his children be continually vagabonds, and beg: let them seek their bread also out of their desolate places.

Let the extortioner catch all that he hath; and let the strangers spoil his labour.

Let there be none to extend mercy unto him: neither let there by any to favour his fatherless children.

Let his posterity be cut off; and in the generation folowing let their name be blotted out.

Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered with the Lord; and let not the sin of his mother be blotted out.

Let them be before the Lord continually, that he may cut off the memory of them from the earth.

Because that he remembered not to shew mercy, but persecuted the poor and needy man, that he might even slay the broken in heart.

As he loved cursing, so let it come unto him: as he delighted not in blessing, so let it be far from him.

As he clothed himself with cursing like as with his garment, so let it come into his bowels like water, and like oil into his bones.

Let it be unto him as the garment which covereth him, and for a girdle wherewith he is girded continually.

Let this be the reward of mine adversaries from the Lord, and of them that speak evil against my soul.

But thou for me O God the Lord, for thy name's sake: because thy mercy is good, deliver thou me.

For I am poor and needy, and my heart is wounded within me.

Smoke Detectors Work

Smoke detectors really do work. Fire deaths in the United States have gone down over te last several years. This is attributable, for the most part, to he use of smoke detectors. However, a smoke detector is protection only if it is allowed to perform.

Wood burning stoves are the leading cause of accidental fires in our state today. With colder weather approaching tis is an excellent time to have your stove inspective by a qualified building and/or fire official. When was the last time your chimney was cleaned? There are many qualified chimney sweeps who can, for a reasonable price, clean and inspect cimneys ad advise you on fire safety matters.

Look around your home for possible fire hazards. Ask yourself questions like, "How do I store cleaning solvents and painting supplies? Are our extension crds worn ad frayed? Do I tend to leave my portable coffee maker and/or other appliances on? Do I have debris or rubbish piled against my home? When was te last time I gave newspapers to te local paper drive?" Most people have a basic understanding offire safety but tend to overlook hazardous conditins until a tragic fire occurs.

In 1983 there were almost 24,000 fires in our state. They did $66 million wrth ofdamage ad injured 411 people like you and me. These fires also injured 267 firefighters and killed 40 of our neighbors. These statistics speak for themselves. Let us all work together to lower this unenviable record.

Seeing Or Beholding (In The Greek)

The first verse of the first epistle of John has two different verbs meaning to look with the eyes, but each has its own special meaning: "That which...we have seen (horao) with our eyes, which we have looked upon (theaomai)" I John 1:1. The first verb, "horao" means to see with the eyes, to perceive, to know, to experience. The second verb, "theaomai" means to behold, to look upon, to contemplate, to view attentively

In John 4:35 we read, "I say unto you lift up your eyes and look ("theaomai") on the fields for they are white already." The phrase to look on the fields ("theaomai") does not mean to give them a hurried look but to look on them thoughtfully so as to understand the significance of Jesus' statement and to see the opportunity here

Again in Matthew 11:7 we read, "What went ye out into the wilderness to see ("theaomai"). They were there to see and hear John the Baptist to try to understand the man and his message. They would be here for hours, paying careful attention, hence the verb "theaomai" is used rather than the other word "horao" meaning simply to see. The Berkeley Version translates this part of the verse, "What did you go out into the desert to gaze on?" This translation gives the accurate meaning of the verb "to see". The Phillips Version renders this part of the verse as, "What did you go out into the desert to look at?" that is, to contemplate.

Thus, continuing on through the New Testament wherever we find the Greek verb, "theaomai" (to see), it carries the thought of lookin attentively at something, or of thoughtful regard. "This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven shall so come in like manner as ye have seen (theaomai) him go into heaven," Acts 1:11 They must have stood wonderingly watching Him as long as He was in sight.

This statement gives added emphasis to the words of Jesus, "Take ye head, watch and pray, for ye know not when the time is," Mark 13:33. Knowing in what manner He went into heaven is important in watching for His return.

The use of this verb will give added understanding of situations without going into detail to tell it. For instance Luke 23:55 reads, "The women. .beheld (theaomai) the sepulchre, and how His body was laid." Use of the verb, "theaomai" tells us that they looked at the body and the tomb attentively and carefully to be sure that everything was as it should be in every detail.

An old deacon, when asked as to what value his belief in Christ's soon coming was in his life, said, "I'm sitting with my feet untangled."

Early Flu Immunization

Now is the time for early flu immunization, especially for high-risk individuals, according to the American Lung association of Washington.

Those considered the highest priority group, prople who have been seen by their physicians or who have been hospitalized during the past year because of chronic cardiovascular or pulmonary problems are of special concern, as are residents of nursing homes or chronic care facilities.

The second highest priority group for immunization are the nurses, physicians and other personnel who have extensive contact with the high risk population. They are of concern because they may pass the disease on to others in the high risk group.

The third highest priority group for immunization are otherwise healthy people who are 65 or over, adults and children with metabolic diseases such as diabetes, people with kidney disease, severe anemia and/or compromised immune function.

Persons who are interested in being immunized should contact their county health departments or their own physicians.

More information on the influenza virus and its effects is available by writing the American Lung Association of Washington, 2624 S. 38th St , Tacoma, WA 98409, or by calling 1-800-732-9339 (or 474-9547 in Tacoma.

EVERY ONE A WINNER

▲ At its classic mid-length, the bob just grazes the ear lobe. A flip of the wrist in styling turns back the bang.

In its longer rendition, you'll want to brush it back from the forehead for daytime wear. ▶

Most of us change and grow every year and want our outer selves to reflect the new woman inside. Nevertheless, many ladies hesitate to change their hair more than any other aspect of their appearance. Change is a threatening word when it is applied to hair, and we often opt for the same antiquated look long after we've outgrown it because we simply can't envision something new or the effect it will have on our lives. "What if my husband hates it?" we ask ourselves. "What if it looks terrible?" Fortunately, no change of hairstyle can be a total disaster for long. Hair, unlike the other organs of your body, grows back the way it was, no matter what you do to it. Often a new style may not look the way you imagined, and it will take your mind (and your hair) some time to adjust. Hair does go into "shock" right after it's been cut and may look much better a few days or a week later. It may take time to learn to manage a permed style. Compliments from friends and the men in your life will soon tell you if your new style reflects the real you. If you're unhappy with the style or if your hair shows signs of damage, don't hesitate to return to the salon. A reputable stylist will be only too glad to do what she can to satisfy you—at no extra cost.

Tony Brown's Comments

The Health Prophet

Every time a new report is published on the health of Black people, I brace myself. Sure enough, the last one was no exception. A group of doctors and health experts presented a report at the recent Congressional Black Caucus health Brain Trust.

The life expectancy for a Black person is 68. It is 78 for Whites. Black women are 2½ times more likely to die from diabetes than White women. It goes on and on.

Unhealthy diets and fat in the diet, and subsequently fat on the body, are prime suspects of these horrifying statistics. One expert also singled out medical care which focuses on "curing illness, not preventing it."

But thanks to The Health Prophet there is a focus that makes sense. Everyone can't understand it and everyone won't agree on it, but everyone can afford "Dick Gregory's Slim Safe Bahamian Diet."

Gregory, the author of books on health, is not Gregory the entrepreneur of health. And his best example of health is Dick Gregory who has transformed a 300 pound overweight, whiskey drinking, heavy-cigarette smoking comedian into a medically-certified phenomenon of health.

Now Gregory wants the rest of us to live as long as he will, but he has, he says, found a way for us mortals to benefit as he has from good health without his rigid fasts (the last one lasted 167 days.)

"I'm am not telling you not to eat," Gregory explains as he rejects self-starvation. "You can lose weight without losing nutrition. On this diet you can lose evenly.

Over the last 15 years, Dick has been mixing up formulas for friends. "I've been working for 15 years on this diet. I turned down $900 million years ago because I didn't trust the company," he said.

He, however, found his mate in Cernatin, an Ohio company, from which he received a mind-boggling $100 million for just the United States marketing rights. Gregory retained the mail-order rights to the slimming diet (Dick Gregory, P.O. Box 73002, Chicago, Illinois 60678-3002 or call 1-800-543-1300) which he estimates will make another $162 million a year.

What in the world is in this good-tasting powdered diet? It contains carob, alfalfa, chia, date, rice, pumkin, wheat and various other fibors. There are about 700 calories in a one-ounce scoop that provides more than the federally required daily nutrients.

There are no additives or dairy products, which Gregory feels are not beneficial. "I went to the Bahamas and discovered the power of fresh fruit firsthand. The taste just explodes in your mouth."

"It's safe," he assures us as he wonders why no one ever questioned his old diet. "When I was smoking and drinking a fifth of scotch a day an weighing 300 pounds a day, nobody questioned my health. Now its cool to be healthy.

According to Gregory, $12 million will go to 12 organizations and 10 percent of the $100 million will go to the education of the elderly Benefitting from the sale of Dick Gregory's diet powder will be the NAACP, PUSH, SCLC, Urban League and the Martin Luther King Center, among other civil rights groups.

Already 500 million in orders have been placed for this "7-day rapid weight loss" powder which also consists of (among other things) cucurbita pepo seed, agropyron triticeum powder and malpighia glabra, all vegetable substances.

"I use the Latin names like cucurbita pepo seed and agropyron triticeum powder just in case the big boys try to break it down," Gregory teases. "you can lose weight wihtout fasting," he adds.

You can also help the Black civil rights movement and improve the health of the Black community by listening to The Health Prophet.

Time To Get Tough With South Africa

American policy toward South Africa has failed, and it must be replaced. Continued appeasement of apartheid can only hasten the onset of large-scale violence and subversion of real U.S. interests.

The "evil empire" South Africa tries to present a human face to the world through huge public relations expenditures that attempt to portray the country as a multi-racial paradise. In reality, it is a racist state in which four and a half million whites have citizenship privileges and power denied to over 24 million blacks.

South Africa pretends that the apartheid system is being replaced by a liberalized system of greater democracy. But nothing could be further from the truth. The government did institute a major constitutional change by granting partial political rights for Indians and what South Africa calls "colored" -- people of mixed racial descent.

But even that cosmentic ploy backfired. Most eligible voters boycotted the elections. They recognized that instead of sharing real power, the government was simply trying to split the black majority from their natural allies in the non-white community.

Meanwhile the government was keeping on the pressure against black trade unions, which constitute a major challenge to apartheid's economic oppression of blacks.

Black unions in South Africa -- by their very existence- are a threat to the system. Four out of five workers in the country are black and if they organize, make economic demands, and pursue citizenship and political rights, the system could crumble.

So the authorities passed laws outlawing what in the United States would be normal labor rights and brutally imprisoned strike leaders and union officials.

With South Africa's economy in trouble, the huge gap between black and white earnings is growing even faster than in the past. As it is, the typical white worker earns between four and five times the wage of the typical black worker.

South Africa's strategy is to define blacks as citizens of "homeland" areas that most have never even seen. That way, blacks are prevented from exercising citizenship rights in South Africa itself.

South Africa's only hope is for whites and blacks to come to a new basis for living together in a unified state. But the white minority will not even consider this alternative without pressure.

Pressure is building from within. Spreading riots and violence have led to escalation of oppression and police actions, as if shooting into crowds can legitimize a system based solely on racial domination of the majority by a minority.

But pressure must come from abroad as well. American policy has been based on appeasing South Africa in the hope that it will be accommodating in the resolution of the issue of Namibian independence.

But there's been no movement on that issue and the hopes held by American policy-makers for greater liberalization within South Africa have also been disappointed. So this may be the time to get tough with the racist state of South Africa.

One immediate step should be lodging official, publicized protests over the recent violent suppression of black protests. A second should be demands for release of South Africa's political prisoners, of whom there are many. The U.S. government has to understand that Andrei Sakharov is not the only political prisoner in the world whose treatment deserves anger and protest.

Finally there should be a top-to-bottom reassessment of American policy toward South Africa designed to marshall world pressure to end apartheid.

Nurses Endorse Gardner

The political action committee of the Washington State Association has endorsed Democratic gubernatorial candidate Booth Gardner. This is the first state wide endorsement made in the association's 78 year history.

According to Sandy Ciske, RN, spokeswoman for PUNCH (Politically United Nurses for Consumer Health), Gardner was selected for his stand on the majority of nursing issues "Governor Spellman's veto of the worker Right to know and Cost Containment legislation demonstrates his lack of support for issues of vital importance to nurses. Our clear choise was Gardner."

PUNCH also supports Phil Talmadge, Democrat, in his bid for attorney general and endorses a full slate of candidates seeking a position in the Legislature. Ciske says the candidates were selected after in-depth intrviewing. Criteria in the selection process included the candidate's stand on nursing issues and the candidate's own electibilitv.

As the non-profit, non-partisan political action arm of WSNA, PUNCH makes endorsements and contributes to candidates at the state level who are supportive of the interests of registered nurses. Campaign contributors.

WSNA is the professional association and labor union for registered nurses in WA. State. As a collective bargaining agent, WSNA promotes the professional development of nurses and advances their econmic and practice concerns.

Founded in 1908, WSNA is a constituent of the American Nurses Association.

Protect Your Pets

As car owners prepare to winterise their vehicles, the Washington State Veterinary Medical Association recommends special precautions to protect pets from antifreeze poisoning.

"Antifreeze is extremely toxic to pets," warns WSVMA president Dr. Reilly Giore. "And unlike many poisons, they are attracted to its taste and will lap it up if they find puddles under cars."

As little as one teaspoon of antifreeze can cause sudden death in cats and dogs.

Symptoms of antifreeze poising are vomiting, progressive depression and perhaps an odor to the animal's breath. A veterinarian should be consulted immediately when poisoning is suspected as the damage to the kidneys is rapid and severe.

WSVMA veterinarians recommend proper storage of antifreeze in a sealed container away from curious pets.

Most county health departments in WA., recommend flushing excess antifreeze in a toilet or otherwise disposing of it into a sewage system. Antifreeze that has spilled or dripped beneath a car should be immediately rinsed away.

Chiropractic Kids

This last week my wife and I were blessed with our third child a little girl, named Chemarie. It is truely wonderful to Gods method of creation.

We had what is called a "Natural Birth" which required no outside stimulents, monitoring equipment or pain relievers. Our bodies are made to function in any situation and to be able to meet the demands placed upon it given there is no interference.

With a babies head engaged into the pelvic bowl of the mother, the head acturally presses on some of the plvic nerves which temporally blocks most of the pain during delivering. After the baby is born the nerves return to normal function within 45 minites without the baby's pressure on these nerves.

This is exactly how "Nerve Pressure" can happen in other areas of our spine when a vertebra moves out of the proper alignment. But if the nerve pressure is not removed, serious changes can occur in the nerve and lack of function to some part of the body can result

Just like with the birth of a baby, a chiropractor can remove these nerve pressures and return the body to normal function in most cases and don't forget to have you and your chiropractic kids checked regularly for nerve pressure.

In The Interest Of Better Health, from the Office of Dr. Gordon Rody, Tacoma Chiropractor; 917 S. 10th St., Tacoma, WA 98405 627-7999.

The Importance Of Immunization

The required immunizations protect against diphtheria, tetanus (lockjaw), pertussis (whooping cough), polio, and measles (three-day and hard). Mumps immunization is required only for children entering Head Start or kindergarten programs.

Students new to Tacoma are given a 45-day grace period after school begins to bring their records into compliance. If additional vaccines are needed, parents should take their children to either their family doctor or contact the Tacoma-Pierce County Health Department.

School health officials are stressing the importance of immunization due to the recent outbreak of several cases of whooping cough in Pierce County. Parents of students new to Tacoma and other Pierce County schools have until Oct. 20 to get their youngsters' immunization records up-to-date. After that time, students whose records are not in compliance face the possibility of being excluded from school unless religious, medical, or philosophical exemptions are claimed.

The effort is not to exclude youngsters from school, but to protect the health and safety of all Washington residents by immunizing all school-age children against certain diseases. The state legislature passed a law in 1979 giving local health departments the jurisdiction to exclude youngsters who do not have up-to-date immunization records from school.

ST JOHN 5
JESUS ANSWERS
FOR HIMSELF

But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work

Therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him, because he not only had broken the sabbath, but said also that God was his Father, making himself equal with God

Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise.

For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel

For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth whom he will.

For the Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son:

That all men should honour the Father. He that honoureth not the Son honoureth not the Father which hath sent him

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that hereth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed form death unto life

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

Help a friend get through the day without a cigarette. They might just quit forever. And that's important. Because good friends are hard to find. And even tougher to lose.

THE GREAT AMERICAN SMOKEOUT
AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

History Of The Late Founder

The turn of the twentieth century in America, brought the 1904 revival to America, which came from Europe, principally from the country of Wales. This great revival was of pentecostal fervor. Its emphasis like the charismatic movement of the 60's and 70's was on the Holy Spirit and the gifts of the Holy Ghosts. When C P. Jones and Bishop C H Mason, sought deeper religious life and left their traditional churches, they sought and obtained conversion and sanctification. However, it was Bishop C.H. Mason who went further and attended the geat revival in California, where men of every denomination and race were seeking the baptism of the Holy Ghost.

The book titled "Another Wave Rolls In", by Frank Bartleman, Copyright 1962 talks of Elder W.J. Seymour, who was one of the leaders of this revival, that was interdenominational and interracial. They often refer to him as "brother Seymour" and record incidents such as "THE AZUSA STREET, where a colored sister spake in tongues." Elder Seymour, was the front runner and seemed to work well in white revival services during this spiritual awakening in America. Bishop Mason was there, his personal account often written in this great revival. His name is not mentioned in books that record these events in California, where many prominent white church men attended seeking what Bishop Mason and other preachers were seeking. Elder Seymour is more often mentioned in pentecostal periodicals because, he though black, was one on the scene and perhaps had received the baptism of the Holy Ghost before many of the white church leaders, thereby making him a great helper to his white brethren, who were yet seeking his gift.

P.L.U. Receives $200,000 For Minority Students.

A $200.000 gift from Rainier Bancorporation Foundation to the Pacific Lutheran University School of Business Administration has established the Rainier Bank Business Scholarship Fund for minority students at PLU.

According to Catherine Anstett, corporation contribution manager for the foundation, nine $2,000 grants will be awarded annually to minority transfer students from area community colleges enrolling for their junior year in the PLU business school.

The grant, which is intended to be matched by the university and other donors can also be renewed by eligible students for their senior years, she indicated.

After five years, funds not used for these scholarships will have accumulated in a permanently endowed Rainier Business Scholarship Fund for Minority students.

Gundar King, dean of the School of Business Administration said, "It is important that we have our full share of outstanding minority students at PLU. They are a part of the leadership we seek to prepare. To be a good school, we need these students."

A 3.5 grade average is a qualifying factor for scholarship eligibility, according to PLU admissions officials.

More information on the scholarships is available from PLU transfer coordinator Camille Eliason at 535-7138.
